Dear Hunter Mill Friends,

Fall colors and Daylight Savings are coming to Hunter Mill District and so have the traditional events associated with the season. After a day of rain, the clouds cleared and I participated with the many ghosts, goblins and ninjas in the annual Vienna Halloween parade. Fun was had by all.

With the approval of the Transportation Bond Referendum on November 2nd, the County funds our contribution toward the Metro rail system, including buying 400 new metrorail cars and 500 Metro buses, as well as building new bus garages, including one in Fairfax. Regional jurisdictions by compact agree to pay their share of the Metro's capital improvement program, and because the County carefully plans its bond sales, the approved bonds will not cause a tax increase.

Phase 1 of the Dulles Corridor Metrorail Project is well underway as visitors to Tysons Corner and drivers on I-66 and the Dulles International Airport Access Road can attest. You can see the beginnings of the Tysons East Station in the median across from Marshall's Plaza and the Tysons West station across from the Sheraton. Construction continues on the Dulles Access Road in the median all the way to Wiehle Avenue where the station construction is visible just west of the overpass bridge.

In December, Fairfax Connector Routes for the 585, 595, and 597 buses will be changed as the Reston East Park and Ride is closed so construction can begin on the Wiehle Avenue Parking Garage for 2300 cars. To keep our Hunter Mill residents informed of these changes, a meeting was held on Nov. 4 at the North County Governmental Center to explain the changes. We will keep you posted on the specifics on the Hunter Mill District website. I am working closely with residents and Reston organizations to plan for multimodal access to the Reston station when it opens three years from now with the completion of Phase I.

Phase 2 Rail Station designs were presented last month by the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority (MWAA) for the six stations from Reston Parkway thru Dulles Airport to Route 772 in Loudoun County. The most significant change would place the airport station further from the terminal than originally approved in 2002. The Board of Supervisors has asked, and as a member of the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA), I sponsored a Resolution asking that you, the passenger, be kept in mind as the alternative is considered.

As Thanksgiving approaches, we can be grateful that the economy in our region is strong and that improvement projects are continuing that will bring increased prosperity and opportunity for those who live and work in Hunter Mill District. We are also grateful to the many people who participated in the October volunteer activities, particularly the Backpack Food program for hungry kids. The response was heartwarming. Our annual Hunter Mill Winter Coat Closet begins this month (see page 2) so please keep us in mind as you clean out your closets. Thanks on behalf of all in need.

Community Health Survey: Partnership for a Healthier Fairfax

The Partnership for a Healthier Fairfax (<http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/hd/mapp>) is a coalition of community members and diverse organizations working together to improve community health in the Fairfax community, which includes Fairfax County, the cities of Fairfax and Falls Church and the towns of Clifton, Herndon and Vienna.

A critical component of the Partnership's work is a Community Health Survey (<http://tt1.opinio.net/s?s=10369>) to gather perspectives about community strengths and the issues needing more attention. The brief anonymous survey will be posted online through November 15, 2010. Everyone who lives, works, or plays in the Fairfax community is encouraged to take a few minutes to answer some simple questions. This is a chance to get involved and make a difference as we work together to improve community health. Your opinion counts!

Fairfax County Champions of Character in Sports

Each year, the Fairfax County Athletic Council honors athletes, coaches and volunteers who exhibit outstanding sportsmanship in their sports for the Champions of Character in Sports Awards. I was honored to participate in at the awards presentation last month to recognize these outstanding examples of sportsmanship. This year's selections in the Hunter Mill District are:

Khristin Kylo - female athlete from Madison High School. Khristin, a 2010 graduate of JMHS, is currently a freshman softball player at Princeton University. She was selected for her perseverance in facing a tough medical condition and inspiring her team to make it to the state semifinals.

Bryan Cox - male athlete with Reston Little League. Bryan, a 9 year old pitcher, battled back after a serious illness and treatment to become a key member of his team's pitching staff. Bryan is an example in perseverance and a model of determination that his peers and coaches alike can look up to.

Bob Zadeh - coach with Vienna Youth Soccer. Bob was nominated for his work with The Outreach Program for Soccer (TOPSoccer), designed to give children with special needs the opportunity to learn and play soccer. Bob literally wrote the book for coaches and directed the coach training sessions along with planning each of the TOPSoccer program sessions.

Anne Ganten - parent with Vienna Youth, Inc. Anne is founder and commissioner of A-List League, a new venture of VYT's basketball program. The new league provides an opportunity for youth with special needs to participate in basketball program designed for their skill level and experience.

Thank you for supporting the Helping Hungry Kids Food Backpack Program

Sarah Newman, Executive Director of Helping Children Worldwide, and I would like to thank constituents and Mount Pleasant Baptist Church for participating in the Helping Hungry Kids Backpack Program. These nutritious, kid-friendly food items help subsidize the food at home during the weekend. Because of your kindness and generosity, we were able to prepare 80 food packages for the program.

Gas Pipeline Safety Update

Based on constituent inquiry as a result of recent national headlines, I asked the Board of Supervisors in September to direct the County Executive to further inquire about the safety status of gas transmission pipelines beneath Fairfax County. The County Executive recently issued a memo to the Board of Supervisors indicating that there are currently 205 miles of gas transmission pipelines and 111 miles of hazardous liquid pipelines. The Fire and Rescue Department maintains an active liaison with those companies who have pipelines. Because of its population, Fairfax County is designated a high consequence area, resulting in more in-depth oversight.

Pipeline companies all have liaison contacts that provide safety and general pipeline information to landowners, citizens, and first responders. The companies are required to provide annual education seminars on pipeline emergencies which the Fire and Rescue Department has participated in and also conducted trainings with several of the companies. The general public can access pipeline information, i.e., which pipelines run through the areas they live in and appropriate contact information online through the National Pipeline Mapping System at <http://www.npms.phmsa.dot.gov/>.

The Fire Marshal's Office maintains an active list of projects within the county. They also conduct random site inspections of pipeline and tank farm facilities (47 sites) within the county to provide added security and awareness of the above-ground pipeline facilities located throughout the county.

The Fire and Rescue Department has no regulatory authority over pipeline operations in the county and does not conduct inspections of the actual pipelines. No inspections or maintenance records for these pipelines are kept by the department. All safety concerns or violations noted during site checks are reported to the Pipeline and Hazardous Materials safety Administration (PHMSA) or the Virginia State Corporation Commission (SCC).

Update on the FY 2012 Budget

On Tuesday October 26th, County Executive Anthony Griffin gave his initial Fiscal Year 2012 Budget projection to the Board of Supervisors and the Fairfax County School Board at a joint work session. The forecast for FY 2012 (which begins July 1, 2011) is consistent with the last couple of years although the County may see some slight improvement.

The total General Fund Revenue is projected to be $3.3 billion, or approximately the same as FY 2011, due to a continued stagnant housing market and a decline in the commercial real estate market. A very modest increase in revenue combined with increases for goods and services adds up to the County facing another multimillion dollar projected shortfall. County Executive Griffin and the budget staff have projected a FY 2012 shortfall of $54.5 million.

While not as severe as the previous two years, the current projected shortfall presents a challenge because of the necessary actions implemented in the last two fiscal years. Fairfax County suffered its two greatest budget challenges in FY 2010 and FY 2011 with initial projected shortfalls of $648 million and $490 million respectively. In the past two fiscal years, the County has kept operating expenses at FY 2009 levels with no increases to the schools transfer, employee compensation, Information Technology funding, capital funding, and Metro/Connector funding. All agency spending has been reduced and positions have been cut. Some facilities closed and some programs eliminated in order to obtain balanced budgets.

As the County continues to take the necessary steps to once again adopt a balanced budget, I look forward to hearing your concerns regarding the Fiscal Year 2012 Budget. Send your comments to me at hntmill@fairfaxcounty.gov

Rail Construction to Impact Parking at Reston East Park and Ride

Parking spaces at Reston East Park and Ride on Wiehle Avenue north of the Dulles Toll Road will be impacted by Dulles Rail construction as early as November 28, 2010. Reston East Park and Ride is the location of the future parking garage for the Wiehle Avenue Metrorail station, the last of five stations in Phase I of the Dulles Corridor Metrorail Project, scheduled to open in late 2013.

The construction project is expected to require closing of approximately 200 of 820 parking spaces on or about Nov. 28 for preliminary utility work. It is anticipated that the remaining spaces will be closed by March 2011 as construction is expected to be fully active. An interim commuter lot consisting of approximately 600 spaces is planned for 12050 Sunset Hills Road until work is completed on new 2,300-space Metrorail parking facility.

For up-to-date information about parking or travel options, commuters who use Reston East are encouraged to:

- Check the Fairfax Connector Web site (www.fairfaxconnector.com) for updates and parking options
- Sign up for emailed announcements from ConnectorInfo ListServ on the Fairfax Connector Web site.

Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority: Location of the Airport Terminal, Air Rights and Dulles Express Bus Issues

The Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority (MWAA) by state agreement in 2008 now owns and operates the Dulles Toll Road. At the same time, MWAA agreed to build the Dulles Corridor Metrorail Project. Phase 1 is now 20% complete and includes 4 stations in Tysons Corner and the Wiehle Avenue Station. Phase 2 runs from Reston Parkway to Dulles International Airport to Route 772 in Loudoun County and includes 6 stations, 3 of which are in Fairfax County. The Metropolitan Washington Area Airports Authority (WMATA) will operate the new Silver Line.

On September 15, MWAA released a preliminary cost estimate for Phase II of $3.83 billion or about $1.2 billion greater than the previous estimate. Their proposal for an aerial alignment for the airport station located more than 600 feet from the terminal near the north parking garage could reduce the cost of Phase II by $640 million resulting in a preliminary cost estimate of about $3.19 billion.

On September 28, the Board of Supervisors approved a letter to MWAA supporting the originally approved underground station at the terminal pending additional information about costs and other considerations. Tolls will pay for much of Phase 2 and the public has been promised “rail to Dulles” for many years.

The WMATA Board approved a resolution on Phase 2 on Thursday, October 28 resolving that “from a customer access and convenience stand point, the station at Dulles International Airport should be placed as close to the Terminal as possible,” and “urged MWAA to explore other options to reduce project cost and funding burdens including seeking federal and state funding opportunities.” MWAA is currently evaluating a total of four possible alternatives including the original underground location.

I have also been adamant in advocating that MWAA allow developers “air rights” over the Toll Road at the Reston Parkway station. We lost that opportunity at Wiehle Avenue to “connect” both sides of Reston. The County’s Comprehensive Plan includes language for development that would not preclude air rights. MWAA continues to review our request.

Express Bus service was established in the Dulles Corridor in 1998 to establish “ridership” for the proposed rail line to the Airport. Today there are 15,000 daily bus trips in the Dulles Corridor. The state and county originally shared operating costs. With transfer of the Dulles Toll Road to MWAA, Fairfax County lost that vital $6.28 million annual state subsidy. We continue to work with MWAA management to restore those operating funds.

Rail Related Construction Coming to Wiehle Avenue in November

In anticipation of rail, work begins on the Wiehle Avenue Parking Garage for 2300 cars at the end of November. Parking at the Reston East Park and Ride will be phased to other locations beginning on November 28 and completed in March. This means that 200 of the 820 parking spaces at the Reston East Park and Ride will be closed in several weeks. This will cause service changes for Fairfax Connector 585, 595, and 597. The rest of the lot will be closed in phases until March when construction on the Garage begins. I have been working with County Staff to assure a smooth transition. Information will be being distributed on buses, posted in bus shelters and transit centers and distributed at public and business locations in Reston. A webpage has been created at <http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/connector/news/dullesrail/restoneast.htm> for up-to-the-minute information, or call the Connector Hotline at 703-877-5700. Construction will continue for three years until rail opens at the end of 2013.

I use the Reston East Park and Ride and I know many of you who read “Hunter Mill Highlights” do as well. Our commutes will be different. Please stay in contact with the Fairfax Connector references provided and call the office at any time if we can answer any questions.
